2/17/2017 Fairness - Color Orange	The Character trait for the month February is fairness. A person of character shows fairness by being impartial, listening, and being open to differing viewpoints. Fairness instills cooperation with one another and the ability to recognize the uniqueness and value of each individual within our diverse community. A fair minded individual will be open minded and impartial - hear people out, listen to them and consider what they have to say before deciding. President Harry S. Truman said, "It is understanding that gives us the ability to have peace. When we understand the other fellow's viewpoint, and he understands ours, then we can sit down and work out our differences."
